

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A recorded image can be automatically classified according to attached information by designating a name of each paper discharge tray, and determining the paper
5 discharge tray of a paper on which an image is recorded based on an image data read by a storage unit according to the attached information read from the storage unit storing the image data and the attached information about the image data and the name designated by a 10 designation unit.